

Blues can win extra £200

DAGENHAM'S defeat at Tooting on Tuesday night has thrown the way open for Wycombe Wanderers to win an extra £200 this season. The Daggers' title hopes suffered a real set-back with that 3-1 reverse at Sandy Lane and the Rothmans Isthmian League championship now looks Enfield's for the taking.

If Wanderers' overcame Dagenham last night (Thursday) and beat Ilford tomorrow (Saturday) they would jump into second place if Dagenham lose at Bishop's Stortford tomorrow. That would mean a second place prize of £500 from the sponsors instead of the £300 for third position.

After Tuesday night's 4-0 Anglo-Italian victory over Pistoiese, the Blues must be in good spirits for the trip to Ilford but they will be sure of a tough 90 minutes in this, their last game of the season.

Wanderers have never found Newbury Park one of their favourite hunting grounds and Ilford have already held them to a 1-1 draw at Loakes Park this season. John Butterfield and Tony Horseman (penalty) were the scorers.

Ilford, who will have regulars Terry Moore, John Still, Peter Deadman, etc., in the side, are also in with a chance of taking third place in the table although they will not win any prize money as they have exceeded the eight penalty point limit.
